

PUBLISHED EVERY MORNING EXCEPT MONDAY.
VIRGINIAN BUILDING.
MAIN AND COMMERCE STREETS.
M. GLENNAN, OWNER.

THE CIRCULATION OF THE VIRGINIAN IS LARGELY IN EXCESS OF ANY OTHER PAPER PUBLISHED IN EASTERN VIRGINIA.

Its circulation in Norfolk and Portsmouth is greater than that of any paper published or circulated in the two cities.

It is delivered in the cities of Norfolk and Portsmouth and suburbs for 10 cents a week, all subscriptions, postage paid. Five Dollars per year; Three Dollars for six months; One Dollar and Fifty Cents for three months; and Fifty Cents for one month.

Advertisements inserted at the rate of 75 CENTS A SQUARE FIRST INSERTION; each subsequent insertion 50 CENTS, or 50 CENTS WHEN INSERTED EVERY OTHER DAY. Contractors are not allowed to exceed their space or advertise other than their legitimate business, except by paying especially for the same.

THE WEEKLY VIRGINIAN AND CAROLINIAN, eight pages, is delivered, postage paid, three months, 25c; six months, 50c; twelve months, $1.

Entered as second-class matter.

New York business men who are from the South, have issued an address to the Southern business men urging the dangers to the South of an unsound currency system.

The four thousand Japanese of Honolulu held their jubilation on May 11, over the victories of their native land, by a great procession, and no outbreak or disorder occurred.

A Norwegian named Byorling is about to seek for the North pole by means of the balloon. If he finds it there are lots of people who will thank him to send it down this way.

Four Secretaries of State have died in office, out of 42 statesmen who have occupied that position. They were: Daniel Webster, Hugh S. Legare, Abel P. Upshur and Walter Q. Gresham. Two of them were members of President Tyler's Cabinet.

A FALSE INFERENCE.
To the inference contained in the card "To the Public," signed D. Humphreys, appearing in the Pilot of yesterday morning that THE VIRGINIAN and Landmark desire to promote "the worst class of saloon and dive keeping political tricksters that ever ruled a town." THE VIRGINIAN, speaking for itself, asserts that this inference is false and unwarranted.

The record of THE VIRGINIAN is an open book as to its persistent and unceasing warfare against the vicious saloon and dive supporting element of this city in the control of municipal legislation, irrespective of party, and it has fought this element in the Democratic party with all its ability and influence, not alone in one instance, but in many memorable contests.

To a mind so bitter and intolerant as Maj. Humphreys's, THE VIRGINIAN cannot expect to secure the justice of a recognition of this record.

THE RIGHT KIND OF TALK.
In referring to the dedication of the monument erected in Chicago to the memory of the men who fell in "The Lost Cause," the Inter-Ocean has the following to say:

"They were brave and true to the cause they had been persuaded was right, and why should not their children and the comrades that survive them erect a monument to them and scatter flowers on their lonely graves, so far from the homes they left when they responded to the bugle call to arms? Considered in that light, is there a man who would say they were early victims who would say they were?"

Besides, the war is over. It has been over nearly thirty years. There are no living 'confederates.' North and South stand side by side as loyal in devotion to the stars and stripes, and alike believe in the 'indestructible union.' It is all right about the camp fires and in the homes to revive the memories of the war and tell the stories of the bravery of those who followed the flag to glory and the grave. All these things are good to stir the blood, and inculcate in the youth the spirit of patriotism.

"Let every one, then, in the spirit of brotherly love welcome those who come from the southland to do this mournful duty. Let us go with them to the graves of their dead and mingle our tribute with theirs."

This is the right kind of talk, and if there were more newspapers on the other side like the Inter-Ocean the world would hear very little of sectionalism.

As the Inter-Ocean remarks, "the war has been over nearly thirty years," and it is too late in the day to fight the battles all over again. The truth of the great issue should be secured. History as to the causes which led to the war should be correct. This is all that the South seeks—a vindication from the calumny that its soldiers were traitors and rebels. Time will correct this charge, and a united people, strong in their love of country, will ever honor the deeds of bravery and patriotism performed by the men who wore the gray and the blue.

"OVERWORK."
In speaking of Secretary Gresham as a victim of overwork, Mr. Chauncey Depew "points the moral in these words of practical philosophy:"
"I have learned from observation that three things surely happen to a man who works steadily without relaxation. In the first place he becomes nervous, irritable and hard to get along with. In the second place, the grade of his work falls off, and he is liable to err in his judgment. In the third place, he dies suddenly. It is an incontrovertible law of Nature."

This is very true, and the days of many men have been shortened by just such causes as one here pointed out. The Philadelphia Record writing on this line, says: The pity is that there are so few among the thousands who most need to profit by it who can remember how to take proper and healthful recreation. They know perfectly well how to do it when they were boys; but the art, like that of skating and "shinny" and a hundred more in which they were adepts in their younger years, has faded from their memories.

How Grandma Danced.
Grandma told me all about it,
Told me so I couldn't doubt it,
How she danced—my grandma danced—
Long ago;
How she held her pretty head,
How her dainty skirt she spread
Smiling little human rose!
How she turned her little toes,
Long ago.

Grandma's hair was bright and sunny,
Dimpled cheeks, too—ah, how funny!
Really quite a pretty girl,
Long ago.
Bless her! Why, she wears a cap,
Grandma does, and takes a nap
Every single day, and yet
Grandma danced the minuet
Long ago.

Now she sits there rocking, rocking,
Always knitting grandma's stocking
(Every girl was taught to knit
Long ago),
Yet her figure is so neat,
I can almost see her now
Bending to her partner's bow,
Long ago.

Grandma says our modern jumping,
Hopping, rushing, whirling, bumping,
Would have shocked the gentlefolk
Long ago.
No, they moved with stately grace,
Everything in proper place,
Gliding slowly forward, then
Slowly courtesying back again,
Long ago.

Big Colonization Scheme.
A colonization company on a large scale, in which Saginaw people are the prime movers, has just been organized in Michigan, and officers will be elected and a name chosen as soon as Congressman Linton returns home.
The company has completed all arrangements for the purchase of 300,000 acres of land in Florida, on the southeast coast, running from Fort Pierce to the Biscayne bay. The deal involves a cash transfer of over $5,000,000. It is the intention of the company to sell the land in blocks of 20 acres each and to sell it exceedingly low. The idea of the company is to get colonists from the Dakotas, Nebraska and other parts where failure of crops has placed the farmers in hard straits and give them an opportunity for a fresh start in one of the most fertile spots on God's footstool.—Detroit Free Press.

Bottled Diamonds.
While fishermen were hauling a net for shad in the upper Delaware, near Lambertville, last Saturday, they took a sealed bottle with a long, narrow silk ribbon about the neck. In the bottle was this note:

"This bottle was started from Dingman's Ferry, Pa. Will the finder communicate with one of the undersigned, stating when and where found? Ann H. Gertrude G. and Emily L., April 15, 1895."

The fishermen were about to cast the bottle aside when one of them discovered something bright and sparkling in the bottle. It proved to be a diamond, which has since been found to be worth $100. It is supposed in placing the note in the bottle one of the young women dropped the precious stone from a ring she wore.—Chicago Tribune.

The Interference.
A St. Louis woman has sued a shoe firm for using her photograph for advertising purposes. Details are not given, but the nature of the defendants' business would indicate that it was a Trilby photograph.—Chicago Post.

Indigestion, Cramps
Dyspepsia and catarrh of the bowels, caused my wife great suffering. She has been taking Hood's Sarsaparilla and has no bad symptoms. It has improved her looks and weight.
